To whom it may concern:

I have had the pleasure of working with designer Jesse Kline, and can wholeheartedly say that he is a consummate professional and great talent.

He keeps up with the latest design trends, but is also able to adapt stylistically to whatever a project demands. A good team player, he takes direction well.

Jesse has the ability to turn intangible ideas into solid design concepts, integrating text and images in successful visual messages.

Sincerely,

Lesla Griffith

Letter of Recommendation for Jesse Kline

It is with great enthusiasm that I offer my highest personal recommendation for Jesse Kline.

As Creative Director at Hendrix Miyasaki Shin Advertising, Jesse was the creative leader on many of our key accounts. His skills include:

- Strong conceptual thinker who can turn smart concepts into beautiful designs.
- Versatile – he is a rare combination of art director and graphic designer, combining the skills of both.
- 100% dependable – Jesse gets up to speed fast and works fast, though without compromising quality. When you put Jesse on an assignment, he delivers.
- Excellent at client meetings and presentations, providing sound creative reasoning and elegant solutions to client input.
- Deeper broadcast experience – during his time at HMS, Jesse worked on many TV commercials, expanding his skill in yet another creative arena.
- Strong values – Jesse conducts himself with integrity, is passionate about the work and is one of those people who brings positive energy to the office each day.

We sincerely appreciate Jesse's contributions at HMS and recommend that you give him the utmost consideration as a future addition to your agency team.

With Aloha,

Bradley Shin

■ Recommendation letter from David Koch, Exec. VP & CD of Anthology.

Recommendation: Jesse Kline

I will share several reasons why Jesse Kline was invaluable to Laird Christianson, the advertising division of Anthology Marketing Group.

1. Jesse's conceptual talent is top shelf.
2. He is passionate about his work, but not possessive.
3. He is confident of his own talent. Working a parallel path with other art directors, should he see a spark he'll be first to say that another's way is the way to go.
4. He is versatile – adept at art direction, design and even a great headline here and there.
5. He has a rare talent for seeing things from a unique point-of-view, yet his points always, always make sense.
6. Jesse is a good soul. He cares about other people. He cares about the environment. He is an honest man.

Give Jesse Kline careful consideration.

Sincerely,

David Koch

To Whom It May Concern:

December 3, 2012

The following is a letter of recommendation for Jesse Kline.

I have known Jesse for approximately 5 years. We first met socially when he was employed at Laird Christianson. He had a good reputation and was doing good work. When Hendrix Miyasaki Shin Advertising had an opening two and a half years later, I remembered him and I checked on his employment status. We were lucky: he was between jobs. We hired him in May 2010.

Jesse has a keen sense of marketing and design. He is confident and passionate about his work. He is a adept at growing and nurturing business relationships. He is a master at being able to weave important elements of marketing into the world of 'design' in order to get the best results. This is because he understands how product development, marketing, social media, and advertising fit together.

Jesse gets along well with all types of people, and is a team player. He listens well, and values the support various relationships can provide. He seeks balance in his life and I am impressed with the way he juggles family and sports, while excelling professionally.

He exemplifies integrity, and demonstrates true compassion for people – in business and personally.

Sincerely,

Jeff Hendrix
